1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the closest prior art reference of record is the reference to Majid (2005/0027838). However, the reference fails to teach or suggest the features of claim 1 of identifying ambiguities in a computer program wherein at least one permanent definition pre-exists in a computer program prior to automatically adding; and automatically identifying a statement as containing a dual use of the name for each of (function call and memory access) if a result of an automatically checking function is true; the features of claim 37 of at least partially resolving ambiguities in a computer program by identifying usage of a name in a statement to be definitively a memory access if in a graph all edges into the statement are from a pre-existing definition in the computer program; the features of claim 38 of at least partially resolving ambiguities in a computer program by identifying usage of a name in a statement as a function call if in a definition-use graph all edges into the statement are from an artificial definition, and alternatively as a memory access if all edges into the statement are not from the artificial definition, and alternatively flagging the statement as a dual use; the features of claim 39 of utilizing a plurality of flags comprising at least four sets for each statement in the computer program, wherein flags in each set represent definitions of names in a computer program and the flags represent the status of various definitions; or the features of claim 40 comprising a definition-use structure, in which the structure comprises a plurality of permanent nodes and a plurality of edges, wherein each edge connects a first node, either directly or indirectly, to a second node if a definition in the first node can reach a use in the second node, regardless of whether the first node is temporary or permanent.
